

Residential Tenancy Condition Report

Residential Tenancy Act 1997

Important notes about the Condition Report

1. It is a requirement under The Residential Tenancy Act 1997 that a condition report be completed by the property owner and the tenant. The condition report is an important record of the condition of the premises when the tenancy begins and may be used as evidence of the state of repair or general condition of the premises at the commencement of the tenancy. It is important to ensure all relevant information is included. It may be vital if there is a dispute, particularly about the return of the rental bond and any damage to the premises.
2. At the end of the tenancy, the premises will be inspected and the condition of the premises at the time can be compared to that stated in the original report.
3. The tenant has the obligation to return the premise to the condition it was in at the start of the tenancy (except for fair wear and tear).
4. This condition report template has been developed as an example of a report and is free to use. A different format however may be used if preferred by the parties. The Residential Tenancy Commissioner is chiefly concerned with whether the report has been signed by both parties and clearly identifies the general state of repair and the condition of the premise.
5. This template may refer to facilities that are not relevant to your premise, such as a second bathroom, a pool or a garden shed. These sections can be ignored or crossed out if not needed.
6. An additional blank sheet has been provided if more space is needed. Photos may also be attached to best show the condition of a certain aspect of the premise.
7. For further information call Consumer, Building and Occupational Services on 1300 654 499 or visit www.mybond.tas.gov.au for information about the rights and responsibilities of property owners, property agents and tenants before completing this report.

How to complete the Condition Report

1. Before the tenancy begins, the property owner or the property agent must inspect the residential premises and record the condition of the premises by indicating whether the particular room item is clean, undamaged and working by placing a 'Y' (Yes) or 'N' (No) in the appropriate columns. Comments can be included in the report to the right of the relevant item.
2. If the has a water meter that identifies the water usage of the individual premise, the water meter reading at the beginning and end of the tenancy can be recorded on the final page of the report.
3. Two copies of the completed report which have been signed by the property owner or property agent must be given to the tenant before, or at the time of the tenant occupying the premise.
4. As soon as possible after the tenant signs the agreement, the tenant should inspect the residential premises and complete the tenant section of the condition report. The tenant indicates agreement or disagreement with the condition indicated by the property owner or property agent by placing 'Y' (Yes) or 'N' (No) in the appropriate column and by making any appropriate comments on the form.
5. Once completed the tenant must return one copy of the signed condition report to the property owner or property agent 2 days after receiving it. The tenant keeps the second copy of the report.
6. At the termination of the agreement, both the property owner or property agent and the tenant should complete the copy of the condition report they retained, indicating the condition of the premises at the end of the tenancy. This should be done in the presence of the other party, unless the other party has been given a reasonable opportunity to be present and has not attended the inspection.
